Mrs. Olive G. Bartholomew, Late of Quakertown, Names Her Son

SCARBOROUGH WILL

Wrightstown Twp. Woman In Will Created A Trust Fund For Husband

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 1 — In a holographic will, which contained two sentences and was written on a single, small sheet of letter writing paper, a Quakertown mother, Olive G. Bartholomew bequeathed her $6,000 estate to her son, Franklin Bartholomew, 511 West Broad st., without reservation.

The testatrix, who died Feb. 21, wrote her will in pen and ink June 24, 1937. She also named her son executor. Real estate, which is valued at $5,000, is located at 511 West Broad street, and the personal estate was valued at $1600.

Mary M. Scarborough, Wrightstown township, who left an estate of $3,000, created a trust fund for the benefit of her husband and after his death Elizabeth VanHorn and Marie Lois VanHorn shall be the heirs. A house at 111-113 Decatur street, Doylestown, was bequeathed first to her husband and after his death to the same previously mentioned beneficiaries.

Elizabeth M. VanHorn, besides being given a set of Haviland China dishes, wearing apparel and household goods, will receive real estate in Wycombe and Wrightstown.

In a codicil, written Feb. 25, a niece, Louise M. Sampson, was given $500. The will was executed Jan. 25, and the testatrix, who died Feb. 19, named the First National Bank & Trust Company of Newtown executor.

Frank Lovell Sampson, Perkaskie named his widow, Rose Elizabeth Sampson, Perkaskie, RD 1, his beneficiary of his $200 personal estate. The will was written Dec. 31, 1946, and the testator died March 14, 1948. The widow was named executrix.

The $4,000 personal and $5500 real estate holdings of Caroline Perkaskie, Bedminster township, will be inherited, one-third by her husband, Andrew Perkaskie, and two-thirds by eight children, Mary Brodessor, Edna Helveston, Helen Yokanantch, Caroline Jorgenson, Josephine Perkaskie, Rose Altem, Peter and Stanley Perkaskie. Real estate consists of a 55-acre farm at Bedminster Center. The will was dated Nov. 2, 1945, and Donald B. Smith, Perkaskie, was named executor.

Letters of administration in the estate of Gertrude Gunn, Richland township, were granted to Kingston C. Gunn, Weisell, amounting to an estate of $6500. Real estate consists of 107 acres in Richland township and the decedent died Feb. 24. Heirs are two sons, Kingston C. Gunn, Weisell, and George Gunn, 85 Carlton ave., Hoho-Kus, N. J., and a daughter, Alice G. Jackson, Medford, Mass.

CANADIAN HAPPY STATUS

Canadian Finance Minister Douglas Abbott is convinced that inflation in the land of the Maple Leaf is a thing of the past. He thinks that at least another year of "unexcelled prosperity" lies ahead. Therefore, he is passing along some of the benefits of this happy situation to the paying customers, the Canadian people.

Canada is taking realistic action to head off depression. The first step is bound to endear the National Liberty Party to all Canadians: Income taxes will also be reduced, and import restrictions on a long list of commodities will be relaxed. Taxes on jewelry will be reduced by half to 10 per cent. Many other levies and luxury taxes will be wiped out altogether.

Not only is a 32 per cent reduction in income taxes something to gloat over, but for the first time in history taxes in Canada will be lower than in the United States. Income tax rates on middle bracket incomes in Canada will be one-half those in effect in the states.

Canada's comeback from the gloomy vistas of a tight war economy has been nothing short of phenomenal. It shows good management and a will to live in the sunlight of a free economy. Canada has achieved the state which citizens of the United States looked forward to fondly at the end of the war. A prosperous era with drastic reduction in wartime taxes.

Perhaps Congress should appoint a joint committee to tour Canada and learn how it was accomplished. Perhaps the White House should send a representative on a similar mission.

THE EASTER PARADE

What with the now old new look and its influence upon the clothing of women, it is certain that the Easter parade this year will be something beautiful to behold as usual.

It will be a hopeless male, indeed, who will not turn out on Easter morning just to see what the womenfolk are wearing. Any man who lacks that imagination might as well be buried. His state is hopeless.

First requisite for a successful Easter display of finery is sunshine. Granted that, dame fashion will have much to offer. There will be skirts that reach the ankles, fancy petticoats that hang below the hemline of the dress. Color combinations to rival a western sunset.

Slender waists held by tiny corsets, flaring skirts and some not so flaring. Bonnets with flowers and feathers, and bonnets without shrubbery. There will be cute spring coats and fancy shoes.

That's the way it should be. The return of spring is most welcome after weeks of dreary weather. Human spirits will be lifted by the return of Easter. Easter means joy, the hope of resurrection, and ultimate happiness. The world is in turmoil and the brightness of the season and its meaning should cheer those who are fearful of the days ahead.

Secretary of Defense

Concerning this Constitution to which alone he swore fidelity, there are three great movements afoot to strain it out of shape—perhaps to the breaking point. He is in the middle of all three. One is the drive by President Truman to elbow Congress into a subordinate position, to make it purely an advisory body, and to arrogate to himself the law-making and tax-assessing powers given Congress by the Constitution.

A second is the long fight by the military departments to set themselves up as independent of Congressional supervision, if not actually as superior to the legislative branch of government. And third is the trend towards military dictatorship—the ever-present danger that in the time of some real or fancied public emergency (a national strike crisis, for example, or an economic panic) the President will invoke martial law on a national scale and turn the government over to the merged Army and Navy.

All three of these trends are subversive of the spirit of the Constitution, and flatly contradictory to its words. If Secretary Johnson was in earnest, as he placed his hand on two Bibles and took his oath, he is bound to resist to the utmost all these and similar threats to the survival of Constitutional government.

It would be well worth while for the Secretary to refresh his recollection of the precise details of this Constitution which he is sworn to uphold. Few Americans seem to be able to carry its purposes and provisions clearly in mind—and still fewer, when they come into high-ranking positions in Washington.

The Constitution lodges the law-making authority of our government in Congress. That doesn't mean the White House. Nor does it mean in sprawling Bureaucracy, whether in uniform or otherwise. It means that the members of the two Houses of Congress, elected for that purpose by the American people, are entitled to the final judgment on what laws are needed, how they shall be worded, and what they shall cover. That goes for tax laws, too!

Even broader than the legislative powers of Congress, under the Constitution, are its power of investigation. Courts have held that Congress has power to examine all public matters, whether subject to legislation or not.

The military chieftains of the United States, some few years back, conspired successfully to thwart this investigating power of Congress. That was in connection with the worst and most disastrous military fiasco in American history—the Pearl Harbor scandal. It is a matter of record that witnesses around the world were brow-beaten by Army and Navy officers into changing their testimony on the details of this scandal. It is a matter of record also that key evidence was stolen, records suppressed, and gross dereliction of duty white-washed. It is further a matter of record that the witnesses who testified frankly about Pearl Harbor were hounded pitilessly by the military cliques, while those who were most evasive in their testimony under oath have received some of the choicest plums at the command of the military departments and the White House.

Does the new Secretary of Defense interpret this record as showing, on the part of those earlier persons who took oaths similar to the one he has just taken, a proper desire to defend and uphold the Constitution? Would he consider himself authorized to do the same thing himself, if future temptation arose?

One of the great issues of the day is whether the Constitutional provision that Congress alone shall have power to declare war is to be evaded by the treaties known as the Atlantic Pact, which would make war automatic under certain conditions—or leave it a question for Presidential decision.

Where does the Secretary stand on this question? Does he believe, for example, in the traditional concept that treaties could be valid only so long as they were compatible with the Constitution—or in the New Deal theory that the Constitution can be re-written piecemeal by the process of putting the amendments into treaties?

The Constitutional rights of soldiers in the Army, and sailors in the Navy, is one of the vexing questions of the day. A great mass of legal interpretations has accumulated having the effect of taking military courts wholly out from under the Supreme Court. This gives the service man no real source of appeal against injustice in courts martial. Abuse of this situation was flagrant during the past war. Much of what happened was scandalous—but Congress was unable to meet the problem, and the military branch contented itself mainly with trying to suppress information.

Now, the legal precedents setting up the courts martial as independent of the Federal judiciary are almost exclusively the result of decisions under conditions which differed radically from the present situation in two important respects. One is that the bulk of these rulings were at a period when virtually all service men were in uniform as a result of voluntary enlistments, and the other is that in these earlier days the presence of a huge standing army, sustained by the draft, was completely unthought of in peacetimes.

For a man in uniform to be considered to have waived his Constitutional rights by the act of voluntary enlistment is one thing; but for masses of American boys to be construed as having been stripped of these rights by involuntary draft is quite a different matter. And in a day when the peacetime forces are to be numbered in the millions, this whole question poses a great public issue.

Where does the Secretary stand on the fundamental human rights of men inducted into service? Does he feel that the Constitution meant what it said when it declared that the United States judicial power should be vested in the Supreme Court—set up as the guardian of individual liberties and the restraining agency to prevent unconstitutional abuse of authority by the executive and legislative branches?

Does he feel that the Bill of Rights should cover men in uniform just as much as it does those not in service? Or does he agree with a concept that the U. S. government has the power of suppressing the rights of any and all American citizens by the act of inducting them into the armed services?

The question of whether the military branch of government shall be under the Federal judiciary as well as under the legislative branch is one of far-reaching importance. The intention of the Constitution would seem to be completely clear, except that, as noted before, certain basic conditions have changed and posed new problems probably never contemplated by the founding fathers.

They drew a sharp distinction between peace and war, for example. Habeas Corpus could be suspended only "when, in case of Rebellion or Invasion, the public safety may require it." In that generation, the current fad for "undeclared war" had never been invented. Neither had the New Deal concept of "government by emergencies."

The Constitution appears to have intended that the Army and Navy have arbitrary power, unlimited by civilian authorities, only in time of actual war, as declared by Congress, or bona fide emergency such as is quoted above, "rebellion or invasion."

Otherwise, the obvious intent was that the civilian arm should always control and dominate the military arm. If the basic policies of the Army and Navy, and especially those which bear directly on the Constitutional guarantees given to the American people, are not to be controlled by Congress, and are not to be reviewable by the Federal judiciary—then what, pray tell, separates this nation from outright military dictatorship, save the mere act of "taking over?"

Whatever known or unknown problems the new Secretary of Defense may face in his high office, there is no duty before him more profoundly important than satisfying himself what the Constitution of the United States really means, thereafter bearing in mind that the one oath of allegiance he took was to defend that Constitution against all enemies.

being severely scared. She was not able to get the license number or make of the car.

State Police said the man was about 22 years old, had light brown wavy hair and that the car was a four-door sedan.

The girl, who is not in the habit of getting in cars with strange men, denies that she knew the young man.

CONSULTANTS READY TO AID THE YOUTH

Have Nearly 20 More Volunteers for Vocational Work

IN DOYLESTOWN AREA

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 1 — With the addition of nearly 20 more volunteers from the Kiwanis Club of Doylestown, there are now available for the youth of this community approximately 100 vocational consultants who can be contacted through the Doylestown high school.

The vocational guidance program of the Doylestown school which was placed in operation on a broad basis some time ago by Dr. J. Edward Smith, supervising principal was explained in detail by Dr. Smith to the Kiwanians.

After his talk the various members gladly volunteered their services and offered their business and professional experience for any benefit it might be to a boy or girl in this community.

Previous to the meeting members of the Rotary and Lions clubs here also went on record as willing to co-operate in the guidance program and between 75 and 80 men were registered as vocational consultants.

Dr. Smith said that the guidance plan is already working out to great satisfaction, but as time goes on it will be of outstanding value.

"The nice part about this program is that it costs no money; but calls for what is much more precious than money—some of your time and experience," Dr. Smith declared. "When you are in a position to help a young person decide what he or she wants as a life career, you are doing a fine piece of public service."

Dr. Smith pointed out that more help is being received today by the young folks along vocational guidance lines, than ever before.

"Most of us had no help whatsoever when we chose our business or profession, and you will recall that it was pretty tough going at times," the speaker continued.

"And young folks today need guidance more than they ever did before. Young folks have many more opportunities today than they did when you were young. I can assure you that the guidance program that is now operating in Doylestown, is one of the best to be found anywhere."

Dr. Smith stated that in addition to the vocational consultants, the program uses the weekly career forum records issued by one of Philadelphia's largest radio stations.

Approximately 30 students have recently used the vocational guidance program to advantage, and Dr. Smith reported that both the students using the program and the vocational consultants were delighted with the results.

"I am very enthusiastic about this program," Dr. Smith told Kiwanians.

"We spend far too little time with the young folks today, and many times they are pushed aside and allowed to go along without guidance."

"The type of education that is doing a good job today is one that reaches out into a community and seeks your help, and gets it," Dr. Smith declared.

About the big trucks Don't be misled by half-truths

You and everyone paying taxes and driving cars and commercial vehicles are vitally interested in the highway damage done by big trucks.

These are trucks. Whether you call them "trucks," "tractors," "semi-trailers," "combination vehicles," or what-not... they are still trucks.

Big trucks that do greatest damage to highways comprise less than 1% of all motor vehicles. Some of their owners are asking the Pennsylvania Legislature to pass House Bill 560 that would increase weight limits... a special law for the benefit of less than 1% of users of public highways.

THE BIG-TRUCK OPERATORS SAY:

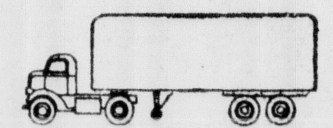

"Trucks will not be bigger! Trucks will not be wider or longer. Trucks will not carry heavier maximum gross weights than already allowable... If HB-560 is passed."

THAT IS A MISLEADING HALF-TRUTH. HERE IS THE WHOLE TRUTH.

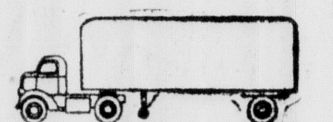

1 House Bill 560 would permit big-truck operators, simply by adding an extra axle, to concentrate their heaviest load on a short wheel-base. This would be highly destructive to highways.

The weight of this vehicle and load would increase from 22½ to 30 tons.

The weight of this vehicle and load would increase from 22½ to 24 tons.

2 The Bill would permit truckers to operate these heaviest loads without stepping up their engine power. That means slower crawling uphill and greater danger to automobile traffic.

This bill would:

- A—Increase highway damage.
- B—Increase loss of life and property.
- C—Increase taxes.

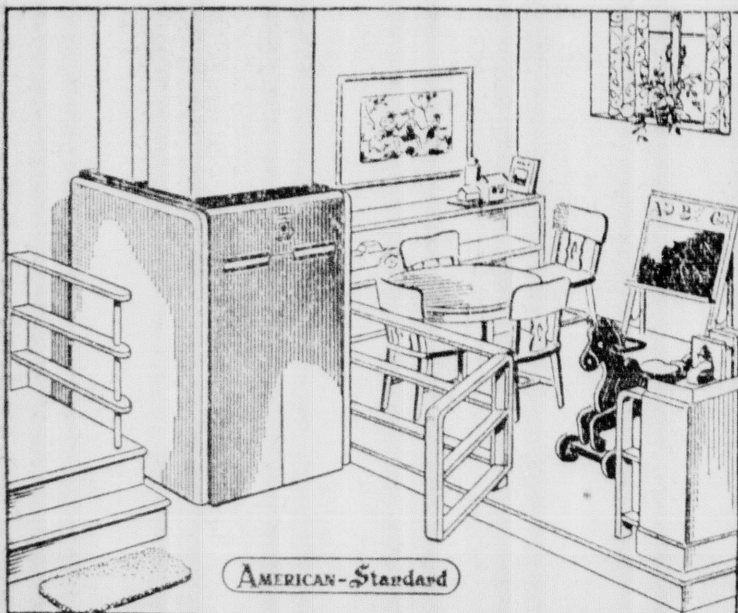

You, the people who are the owners and users of the highways, should oppose this bill.

NEWS OF INTEREST TO PA. FARMERS

By John Harms
(INS. Pennsylvania Farm Editor)
HARRISBURG, Apr. 1 — Two German farm officials have left the staff with many new ideas for rehabilitating agriculture in the U. S. military zone in southwestern Germany gotten through their contacts with many Pennsylvania farm groups.

The visitors, Heinrich Stooss, minister of agriculture in the state of Wuertemberg-Baden, and Dr. Franz Herren, his deputy, found particular interest in results of livestock and plant disease control and the state's extension services. "Tuberculosis and a disease of cattle are serious problems with us and the Pennsylvania plan of control in these and other livestock and poultry diseases will help us greatly," Herren said.

"The main difficulty in Germany has been the gap between science and research and the application of knowledge resulting from such research," he declared in comparing German methods with the extension service of the agriculture department.

Stooss and Herren visited farms of the Hershey Estate, in Lancaster and York counties and farmer co-operatives in Lebanon and other counties and spent three days at Pennsylvania State College surveying research and extension services. They are members of a group of six agriculture leaders of bizonal

Germany selected by their own countrymen to tour the United States. They were officially cleared of Nazi collaboration.

The agriculture department said now is the time to get control of termites, usually found in old homes. And if you're thinking of getting rid of the pests once and for all, here's how to do it:

Locate their underground nests, usually found outside the foundation walls. When the termites can't get to wooden structures through cracks in the masonry, they build cement-like tunnels on the outside or inside surface of the foundation wall. Scrape the tubes and insulate the building from the soil with metal or concrete barriers.

Termites cannot live unless they can get to the soil, according to Dr. A. B. Champlain, State Entomologist.

One of the best chemicals to kill underground nests, says Champlain, is pentachlorophenol — a white crystalline material which can be had in solution under trade names.

Mix the solution with fuel oil or waste crankcase oil and pour into trenches or holes several feet deep near termite nests on both sides of the foundation wall.

If using the crystals, dissolve two and a-half pounds of pentachlorophenol in one gallon of pine oil and dilute with oil to make seven gallons.

Two New Plays Will Be On Bucks Co. Playhouse Schedule

Two new plays, which it is hoped will be presented next season on Broadway, will be offered this summer at the Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope, by Theron Bamberger, director of the theatre.

One is "Take My Stand," by Elihu Winer, who is currently engaged in writing film and television scripts in Hollywood. The play is a comedy with an important underlying political and social theme. The locale is a southern city. The author himself is from Birmingham, Alabama.

The other new play, tentatively titled "Group of Ten," is by Frank Mandel and Morgan Wallace. The action takes place on an uncharted island in the Pacific toward the end of World War II and deals with the experiences of ten airplane passengers of various nationalities who are forced down there. Under the title "Ten" the play was tried out several months ago in Hollywood.

The Bucks County Playhouse will open its summer season on Friday evening, June 3. One of the possibilities for the summer is a revue, "The Bucks County Follies." A number of distinguished authors and directors have already displayed interest in the project, among them George S. Kaufman, Moss Hart, Oscar Hammerstein, Justin Herman, Philip Loeb, and Ezra Stone, and it is hoped to have contributions from each of them and from others. A. M. Walker, well known Broadway orchestrator and arranger, who lives in New Hope, will compose many of the numbers, some of them in collaboration with Jack Lawrence lyric writer. If the numerous sketches and musical numbers can be completed in time this will be a late season offering.

Among the performers who will be asked to participate are Kitty Carlisle, Shirley Booth, Ella Logan, and Sara Seegar.

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. Edward G. Yeomans
Pastor
Bristol Presbyterian Church

Lighten our darkness, we beseech Thee, O Lord, and by Thy great mercy defend us from all perils and dangers of this night; rather may the hours of this night bring us rest and refreshment for the tasks and the duties of the morrow. Give us each day the patience and peace that enable us to endure our lot and portion as we put our trust in Thee. We do not ask to understand, we only ask for the gift of faith that will enable us to rise up out of doubt, to overcome fear, to conquer temptation and to humbly confess, "Lord, I believe." Amen.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By JOE ELBERSON

Write and protest . . . in a recent legislative bulletin issued by the National Rifle Association comes this message on anti-firearms legislation introduced by two Pennsylvania law makers for action at the current session of the General Assembly in Harrisburg. Every sportsman should write and protest. Here is the text of the bulletin:

"1. House Bill No. 1176 has been introduced in the State Legislature by Representatives Wayne M. Dreisch of Ringtown and Representative W. Henry Elder of Jersey Shore.

"2. The bill is an amendment to existing Pennsylvania penal law, to control the discharge of firearms. It would prohibit the discharge of any firearm at any time or place within the commonwealth except under certain conditions as provided in the bill.

"3. The pertinent sections of the bill are here quoted in full for the information of all Pennsylvania sportsmen:

"Except as hereinafter provided it shall be unlawful for any person at any time or at any place in this Commonwealth to shoot at any mark or target other than at living creatures upon which there is not at the time a closed season with a rifle, airgun or firearm of any sort or to discharge any airgun or firearm at a human being or in the general direction of any human being in such a manner as to endanger the life or safety of any human being.

"Nothing in this section shall prohibit the discharge of an airgun or firearm at a properly constructed target or mark or at a dead tree protected by either a natural or artificial barrier so that the ball or bullet cannot travel more than fifteen (15) yards beyond the target aimed at after making due allowances for deflection in any direction not to exceed an angle of forty-five (45) degrees.

"Any constable, police officer, member of the State Police force, game protector, fish warden, forester or forest ranger may, upon view, arrest without warrant any person found violating the provisions of this act and bring such person before a justice of the peace, alderman or magistrate for hearing. All penalties shall be paid into the funds of the county in which collected. Provided the provisions of this section shall not be construed to apply in any manner to the protection of life or property or to officers in the performance of an official duty or to regulations controlling shooting at targets during the big game season or to the building or equipment of rifle ranges owned, leased or maintained by the Pennsylvania National Guard or by any properly accredited State or Federal rifle club or association or to any public exhibition properly safeguarded and conducted under the direction of any organization for the promotion of marksmanship.

"4. This is a careless, incompetent and dangerous bill which starts with a blanket prohibition of all shooting in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and then proceeds through badly worded and incomplete exceptions to establish those places and circumstances where firearms may legally be discharged. Exceptions so carelessly drawn in fact, that no provision is made for shotgun shooting at Skeet or Trap, although shotguns are everywhere classed as firearms. Their discharge would be prohibited by this legislation except at living creatures not protected by a closed season.

"5. This type of legislation is particularly insidious because it attempts to shift the burden of proof away from the State and on to the individual. It would make a normal act illegal except as specifically exempted. Every person who discharged a firearm in Pennsylvania consequently would become a violator unless he could prove to the satisfaction of the Court that his act of firing came within one of the exceptions as listed.

"6. This bill No. 1176 should be defeated. A casual reading by any competent rifleman is enough to discover the flaws which make the measure worthless as a means of preventing firearms accidents and discriminatory toward the legitimate sportsman.

"7. It is suggested that all interested NRA members and sportsmen express their views on this proposed legislation to the members of the Judiciary Committee of the House who are considering the bill or to their own elected state representative at the Capitol in Harrisburg.

"8. Members of the House Judiciary Committee are: Chairman J. H. McKinney, Franklin; Vice-Chairman A. W. Johnson, Smythport; H. F. Boorse, Lansdale; T. H. Lee, Philadelphia; H. J. Tahl, Philadelphia; Francis Worley, York Springs; T. H. Greer, Butler; Louis Sax, Philadelphia; L. M. Minter, Philadelphia; L. A. Bloom, Chester; R. F. Kent, Meadville; M. J. O'Donnell, Philadelphia; P. A. Orban, Jr., Hooversville; W. Z. Scott, Summit Hill; E. W. Tompkins, Emporium; H. H. Yandee, Philadelphia; B. S. Aitshuler, Philadelphia; E. O. Herman, Millersburg; J. N. Robertson, Media; N. F. Ziegler, Harrisburg; E. H. Bane, Uniontown; A. D. Brandon, Pittsburgh; H. S. Brown, Pittsburgh; G. T. Guarnieri, Philadelphia; E. J. Hagerty, Philadelphia; L. D. Leonard, Pittsburgh; M. G. Mihm, Pittsburgh; A. S. Resinger, Reading; Samuel Rose, Philadelphia; T. H. Schmidt, Pittsburgh; Mary A. Varallo, Philadelphia; D. H. Weiss, Monessen."

St. Ann's Parochial Five Defeats St. Mark's Team

In the preliminary game on the high school floor last night, the St. Ann's Parochial School quintet whipped the St. Mark's Parochial school team, 30-17, in a one-sided affair.

Fred DeCesare led the St. Ann's boys in scoring by ripping the cords for six field goals, four coming in the second half. DeCesare sat out most of the last quarter.

Leo Kervick had seven points for St. Ann's.

ST. ANN'S CROWNED CHAMPIONS; WIN GAME FROM PROFY TEAM BY NARROW MARGIN OF SINGLE POINT

On a foul shot by "Kenny" Martin, the St. Ann's A. A. team was crowned the 1948-49 basketball champions of the Bristol Basketball League last night, ending the two-year reign of the Profy team. An extra period was necessary to decide the victor, score being 43-42.

The score was tied at 42-42 and less than two seconds to play when Martin was fouled. The sound of the referee's whistle had hardly died out when the automatic buzzer went off, ending the game. But Martin was entitled to his free throw.

Both teams lined up as if playing were to continue. The St. Ann's players shouted words of encouragement to Martin while the Profy players were trying to distract his attention and cause him to miss the throw. The former Youth League high scorer who had sat out practically the whole game on bench, made a perfect swish of the cords without touching the hoop for the winning point.

It was a dramatic finish to a well-played game. Fans were on the edge of their seats from the opening whistle until Martin's deciding gift shot. Both teams lost valuable players in the tilt via the personal foul route. St. Ann's had "Kenny" Stoll on the bench mid-way in the third quarter and then lost him in the last session. Joe Natale also went out on fouls but this gave Martin his opportunity. "Easy" Mama, who did an excellent job in guarding Stoll also had five personal fouls. Both "Johnny" Slaven and "Johnny" Pindar, of Profy's, played the overtime period with four fouls on them.

"Arnie" Malloy and "Rabbit" Palumbo led the St. Ann's contingent to the triumph. Both of these boys scored 12 points each but Palumbo's antics in "stealing" the ball caused the Profy rosters plenty of heartaches. Stoll had ten points to his credit.

Slaven also did excellent work while he was playing defensive ball against Malloy. Pindar had 19 points for the Profy team and did his scoring in spurts.

The closeness of play is indicated by the fact that the score was tied six times. St. Ann's took the lead eight times and Profy's five. The largest St. Ann's lead was 19-10 in the second quarter while Profy's best edge was 30-26 at the end of the third session.

The scoring was scarce at the beginning of the tilt. Gallagher dropped in a foul and Stoll put St. Ann's in front, 2-1. Mama's set shot gave Profy's the lead and Slaven's gift throw made it 4-2. Barbetta's long shot tied it at 4-4. Slaven's shot underneath the basketball made it 6-4 but Stoll converted a foul. Barbetta followed with a fielder and St. Ann's jumped into the lead, 7-6. Pindar put the radiomen in front with a field goal from the circle. Stoll tapped in a rebound and Palumbo's two foul conversions made it 11-8. After Mama dunked a foul, Stoll had a two-pointer, making the count, 12-9.

Both teams played a good guard- ing tilt in the second canto. Barbetta followed Hansen's foul with a long shot. Stoll's pass to Palumbo was good for a fielder and Malloy dropped one in from the side to make it 19-10. Messenger dunked in a long throw and Pindar and Stoll made fouls. Hansen's double-decker made it 20-15 at the half.

Pindar scored three points for the Mill Streeters to open the third session. Palumbo's goal made it 22-18. Gallagher scored twice in succession to knot the count at 22-22. Stoll's foul and Barbetta's set shot gave St. Ann's a three point lead but Pindar followed with three more points to deadlock the score at 25-25. Stoll and Pindar again made free tosses to tie the count. Pindar scored two more field goals to give Profy's a 30-26 lead at the quarter.

Palumbo got a point for St. Ann's and Malloy had a fielder and foul to deadlock the score at 20-20. Malloy then put St. Ann's ahead with a two-pointer and also made a foul. After Palumbo scored from the side, St. Ann's had a 35-30 lead. Slaven registered a foul and Mama tabbed a fielder to make it 35-33. Palumbo and Malloy added a foul and field goal to put St. Ann's ahead, 38-35 with five minutes to play. Pindar scored a beautiful shot and Gallagher dropped in a pair of fouls to even the count at 38-38 at the end of the regulation game.

The extra period started with

Palumbo scoring from side court. Slaven got a point back for Profy's but Malloy scored a one-hander to put St. Ann's ahead, 42-39. Roe shot one in from in from the center of the floor. At the same time a St. Ann's player was pushing Pindar and he made the shot to even the count at 42-42. Then came the disastrous foul to Martin who converted to put a spectacular finish to the game.

The St. Ann's rosters rushed on the floor after the foul shot and hoisted Martin to their shoulders and carried him to the dressing room for his "Frank Merriwell" finish.

Winning the basketball crown gave St. Ann's a clean sweep of major sports in Bristol. It won the baseball championship of the Bristol Suburban League, the football championship of Lower Bucks County, and now the basketball title of the Bristol League.

The "Saints" will try to add more glory to its credit Monday night when it meets the Bristol High School team in a benefit game on the high school floor.

In the preliminary game, the Carver Center team, of Trenton, will seek its 19th straight win against the Falls Alumni team, of the Bristol League.

Mrs. Olive G. Bartholomew, Late of Quakertown, Names Her Son

SCARBOROUGH WILL WRIGHTSTOWN TWP. Woman In Will Created A Trust Fund For Husband

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 1 — In a holographic will, which contained two sentences and was written on a single, small sheet of letter writing paper, a Quakertown mother, Olive G. Bartholomew, 511 West Broad st., without reservation.

The testatrix, who died Feb. 21, wrote her will in pen and ink June 24, 1937. She also named her son executor. Real estate, which is valued at $5,000, is located at 511 West Broad street, and the personal estate was valued at $1600.

Mary M. Scarborough, Wrightstown township, who left an estate of $3,000, created a trust fund for the benefit of her husband and after his death Elizabeth VanHorn and Marie Lois VanHorn shall be the heirs. A house at 111-113 Decatur street, Doylestown, was bequeathed first to her husband and after his death to the same previously mentioned beneficiaries.

Elizabeth M. VanHorn, besides being given a set of Haviland China dishes, wearing apparel and household goods, will receive real estate in Wycombe and Wrightstown. In a codicil, written Feb. 25, a niece, Louise M. Sampson, was given $500. The will was executed Jan. 25, and the testatrix, who died Feb. 19, named the First National Bank & Trust Company of Newtown executor.

The $4,000 personal and $5500 real estate holdings of Caroline Perkinson, Redminister township, will be inherited, one-third by her husband, Andrew Perkinson, and two-thirds by eight children, Mary Brodessa, Edna Helveston, Helen Yokanantch, Caroline Jorgenson, Josephine Perkinson, Rose Allen, Peter and Stanley Perkinson. Real estate consists of a 56-acre farm at Redminister Center. The will was dated Nov. 2, 1946, and Donald B. Smith, Perkasie, was named executor.

Letters of administration in the estate of Gertrude Gunn, Richland township, were granted to Kingdon C. Gunn, Weisel, amounting to an estate of $6500. Real estate consists of 107 acres in Richland township and the decedent died Feb. 24. Heirs are two sons, Kingdon C. Gunn, Weisel, and George Gunn, 85 Carlton ave., Hoffs-Kus, N. About 400 or 500 yards from her home, she stopped the car and began using masher's tactics. She became terrified and jumped out of the car. During the tussle her dress was torn.

She left French and history textbooks in the man's car. She suffered no apparent injuries other than

In the vast open courtyard of the sprawling Pentagon Building at Washington this week, there was enacted a solemn ceremony.

Louis C. Johnson took his oath of office as National Secretary of Defense. In the presence of an elaborate military guard and a throng of sightseers, Secretary Johnson stood in front of two flags—the Stars and Stripes and his own personal flag—and when the oath was read by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, said earnestly:

"I do, so help me God!"

Since this youngest Cabinet position is one of the most important offices in the American government, closely rivaling the Secretary of State for supremacy, it is worth while to examine the oath and the implications of taking it.

Secretary Johnson took no oath of allegiance to the President, nor to the Congress, nor to the military branch of the government; and not even, for that matter, to the American people as such. Any oath of that kind is expressly forbidden by our basic law.

What he swore allegiance to was the Constitution of the United States. He swore to support it against all enemies.

Now, many men have taken such an oath before. Some have regarded the ceremony as a technical affair, having no real bearing on their future conduct. Others have had their tongues in their cheeks, binding themselves only to such parts of the Constitution as they deemed convenient.

Still others, men of righteousness and high principle, have taken the oath for the most solemn of obligations, and have dedicated their public service to the faithful following out of a sacred promise.

Much of the future well-being of the American nation will hinge on the question of just how Secretary Johnson construes his oath to uphold and defend the Constitution.

His own Constitutional status is cleancut. He is a member of the Executive Branch of the Government, empowered to carry out the laws of Congress. Specifically, his office is the extension of the duty assigned to the President by the Constitution of being Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy.

This Constitutional foundation has always existed. Congress could not, by law, either extend or diminish the implied powers given the President and now concentrated in the person of Secretary Johnson. Actually, any President who wished to might long ago have set up most of the machinery of this new office, without consulting Congress. President Roosevelt, who had an Assistant President in the person of James F. Byrnes (later Secretary of State), and delegated to him great authority over civilian affairs, might just as easily have set up his own assistant to coordinate the Army and Navy—long before Pearl Harbor.

Secretary Johnson moves into one of the most sensitive spots in the entire national government, at a period of great stress and crisis.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

The owner of a Paris walkup who took the stairs out during the night seems like a nice fellow . . . hated to see a tenant leave the house.

The landlord said he took the stairs away to have them repaired. . . wanted everything in nice condition for the tenants he hasn't had an increase out of in eight years.

Rent control in the U. S. has brought on some sparkling debates . . . some tenants think controls should be permanent and others think controls should be temporary. Like rigor mortis.

President Truman flatly opposed any cut in the $5,580,000,000 requested for the next year of the Marshall Plan. Senate leaders abandoned hope of final action before the present law expires tomorrow.

While Senate leaders were appealing to rebellious Democrats to return to the Administration, Mr. Truman took issue with two Democratic Congressmen. He replied to Senator George's opposition to new taxes by saying a deficit would be more disastrous than such taxation and that anti-inflation controls were still needed. He rejected Representative Vinson's demand for a much larger military budget.

CANADA'S HAPPY STATUS

Canadian Finance Minister Douglas Abbott is convinced that inflation in the land of the Maple Leaf is a thing of the past. He thinks that at least another year of "unexcelled prosperity" lies ahead. Therefore, he is passing along some of the benefits of this happy situation to the paying customers, the Canadian people.

Canada is taking realistic action to head off depression. The first step is bound to endear the National Liberty Party to all Canadians: Income taxes will also be reduced, and import restrictions on a long list of commodities will be relaxed. Taxes on jewelry will be reduced by half to 10 per cent. Many other levies and luxury taxes will be wiped out altogether.

Not only is a 32 per cent reduction in income taxes something to gloat over, but for the first time in history taxes in Canada will be lower than in the United States. Income tax rates on middle bracket incomes in Canada will be one-half those in effect in the states.

Canada's comeback from the gloomy vistas of a tight war economy has been nothing short of phenomenal. It shows good management and a will to live in the sunlight of a free economy. Canada has achieved the state which citizens of the United States looked forward to fondly at the end of the war. A prosperous era with drastic reduction in wartime taxes.

Perhaps Congress should appoint a joint committee to tour Canada and learn how it was accomplished. Perhaps the White House should send a representative on a similar mission.

THE EASTER PARADE

What with the now old new look and its influence upon the clothing of women, it is certain that the Easter parade this year will be something beautiful to behold as usual.

It will be a hopeless male, indeed, who will not turn out on Easter morning just to see what the womenfolk are wearing. Any man who lacks that imagination might as well be buried. His state is hopeless.

First requisite for a successful Easter display of finery is sunshine. Granted that, dame fashion will have much to offer. There will be skirts that reach the ankles, fancy petticoats that hang below the hemline of the dress. Color combinations to rival a western sunset.

Slender waists held by tiny corsets, flaring skirts and some not so flaring. Bonnets with flowers and feathers, and bonnets without shrubbery. There will be cute spring coats and fancy shoes.

That's the way it should be. The return of spring is most welcome after weeks of dreary weather. Human spirits will be lifted by the return of Easter. Easter means joy, the hope of resurrection, and ultimate happiness. The world is in turmoil and the brightness of the season and its meaning should cheer those who are fearful of the days ahead.

Concerning this Constitution to which alone he swore fidelity, there are three great movements afoot to strain it out of shape—perhaps to the breaking point. He is in the middle of all three. One is the drive by President Truman to elbow Congress into a subordinate position, to make it purely an advisory body, and to arrogate to himself the law-making and tax-assessing powers given Congress by the Constitution.

A second is the long fight by the military departments to set themselves up as independent of Congressional supervision, if not actually as superior to the legislative branch of government. And third is the trend towards military dictatorship—the ever-present danger that in the time of some real or fancied public emergency (a national strike crisis, for example, or an economic panic) the President will invoke martial law on a national scale and turn the government over to the merged Army and Navy.

All three of these trends are subversive of the spirit of the Constitution, and flatly contradictory to its words. If Secretary Johnson was in earnest, as he placed his hand on two Bibles and took his oath, he is bound to resist to the utmost all these and similar threats to the survival of Constitutional government.

It would be well worth while for the Secretary to refresh his recollection of the precise details of this Constitution which he is sworn to uphold. Few Americans seem to be able to carry its purposes and provisions clearly in mind—and still fewer, when they come into high-ranking positions in Washington.

The Constitution lodges the law-making authority of our government in Congress. That doesn't mean the White House. Nor does it mean in sprawling Bureaucracy, whether in uniform or otherwise. It means that the members of the two Houses of Congress, elected for that purpose by the American people, are entitled to the final judgment on what laws are needed, how they shall be worded, and what they shall cover. That goes for tax laws, too!

Even broader than the legislative powers of Congress, under the Constitution, are its power of investigation. Courts have held that Congress has power to examine all public matters, whether subject to legislation or not.

The military chieftains of the United States, some few years back, conspired successfully to thwart this investigating power of Congress. That was in connection with the worst and most disastrous military fiasco in American history—the Pearl Harbor scandal. It is a matter of record that witnesses around the world were brow-beaten by Army and Navy officers into changing their testimony on the details of this scandal. It is a matter of record also that key evidence was stolen, records suppressed, and gross dereliction of duty white-washed. It is further a matter of record that the witnesses who testified frankly about Pearl Harbor were hounded pitilessly by the military cliques, while those who were most evasive in their testimony under oath have received some of the choicest plums at the command of the military departments and the White House.

Does the new Secretary of Defense interpret this record as showing, on the part of those earlier persons who took oaths similar to the one he has just taken, a proper desire to defend and uphold the Constitution? Would he consider himself authorized to do the same thing himself, if future temptation arose? One of the great issues of the day is whether the Constitutional provision that Congress alone shall have power to declare war is to be evaded by the treaties known as the Atlantic Pact, which would make war automatic under certain conditions—or leave it a question for Presidential decision.

Where does the Secretary stand on this question? Does he believe, for example, in the traditional concept that treaties could be valid only so long as they were compatible with the Constitution—or in the New Deal theory that the Constitution can be re-written piecemeal by the process of putting the amendments into treaties?

The Constitutional rights of soldiers in the Army, and sailors in the Navy, is one of the vexing questions of the day. A great mass of legal interpretations has accumulated having the effect of taking military courts wholly out from under the Supreme Court. This gives the service man no real source of appeal against injustice in courts martial. Abuse of this situation was flagrant during the past war. Much of what happened was scandalous—but Congress was unable to meet the problem, and the military branch contented itself mainly with trying to suppress information.

Now, the legal precedents setting up the courts martial as independent of the Federal judiciary are almost exclusively the result of decisions under conditions which differed radically from the present situation in two important respects. One is that the bulk of these rulings were at a period when virtually all service men were in uniform as a result of voluntary enlistments, and the other is that in these earlier days the presence of a huge standing army, sustained by the draft, was completely unthought of in peacetimes.

For a man in uniform to be considered to have waived his Constitutional rights by the act of voluntary enlistment is one thing; but for masses of American boys to be construed as having been stripped of these rights by involuntary draft is quite a different matter. And in a day when the peacetime forces are to be numbered in the millions, this whole question poses a great public issue.

Where does the Secretary stand on the fundamental human rights of men inducted into service? Does he feel that the Constitution meant what it said when it declared that the United States judicial power should be vested in the Supreme Court—set up as the guardian of individual liberties and the restraining agency to prevent unconstitutional abuse of authority by the executive and legislative branches?

Does he feel that the Bill of Rights should cover men in uniform just as much as it does those not in service? Or does he agree with a concept that the U. S. government has the power of suppressing the rights of any and all American citizens by the act of inducting them into the armed services?

The question of whether the military branch of government shall be under the Federal judiciary as well as under the legislative branch is one of far-reaching importance.

The intention of the Constitution would seem to be completely clear, except that, as noted before, certain basic conditions have changed and posed new problems probably never contemplated by the founding fathers.

They drew a sharp distinction between peace and war, for example. Habeas Corpus could be suspended only "when, in case of Rebellion or Invasion, the public safety may require it." In that generation, the current fad for "undeclared war" had never been invented. Neither had the New Deal concept of "government by emergencies."

The Constitution appears to have intended that the Army and Navy have arbitrary power, unlimited by civilian authorities, only in time of actual war, as declared by Congress, or bona fide emergency such as is quoted above, "rebellion or invasion."

Otherwise, the obvious intent was that the civilian arm should always control and dominate the military arm. If the basic policies of the Army and Navy, and especially those which bear directly on the Constitutional guarantees given to the American people, are not to be controlled by Congress, and are not to be reviewable by the Federal judiciary—then what, pray tell, separates this nation from outright military dictatorship, save the mere act of "taking over?"

Whatever known or unknown problems the new Secretary of Defense may face in his high office, there is no duty before him more profoundly important than satisfying himself what the Constitution of the United States really means, thereafter bearing in mind that the one oath of allegiance he took was to defend that Constitution against all enemies.

CONSULTANTS READY TO AID THE YOUTH

Have Nearly 20 More Volunteers for Vocational Work

IN DOYLESTOWN AREA

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 1 — With the addition of nearly 20 more volunteers from the Kiwanis Club of Doylestown, there are now available for the youth of this community approximately 100 vocational consultants who can be contacted through the Doylestown high school.

The vocational guidance program of the Doylestown school which was placed in operation on a broad basis some time ago by Dr. J. Edward Smith, supervising principal, was explained in detail by Dr. Smith to the Kiwanians.

After his talk the various members gladly volunteered their services and offered their business and professional experience for any benefit it could be to a boy or girl in this community.

Previous to the meeting members of the Rotary and Lions clubs here also went on record as willing to co-operate in the guidance program and between 75 and 80 men were registered as vocational consultants.

Dr. Smith said that the guidance plan is already working out to great satisfaction, but as time goes on it will be of outstanding value.

"The nice part about this program is that it costs no money; but calls for what is much more precious than money—some of your time and experience," Dr. Smith declared. "When you are in a position to help a young person decide what he or she wants as a

Dr. Smith pointed out that more help is being received today by the young folks along vocational guidance lines, than ever before.

"Most of us had no help whatsoever when we chose our business or profession, and you will recall that it was pretty tough going at times," the speaker continued.

"And young folks today need guidance more than they ever did before. Young folks have many more opportunities today than they did when you were young. I can assure you that the guidance program that is now operating in Doylestown, is one of the best to be found anywhere."

Dr. Smith stated that in addition to the vocational consultants, the program uses the weekly career forum records issued by one of Philadelphia's largest radio stations.

Approximately 20 students have recently used the vocational guidance program to advantage, and Dr. Smith reported that both the students using the program and the vocational consultants were delighted with the results.

"I am very enthusiastic about this program," Dr. Smith told Kiwanians.

"We spend far too little time with the young folks today, and many times they are pushed aside and allowed to go along without guidance."

"The type of education that is doing a good job today is one that reaches out into a community and seeks your help, and gets it," Dr. Smith declared.

About the big trucks Don't be misled by half-truths

You and everyone paying taxes and driving cars and commercial vehicles are vitally interested in the highway damage done by big trucks.

These are trucks. Whether you call them "trucks," "tractors," "semi-trailers," "combination vehicles," or what-not... they are still trucks.

Big trucks that do greatest damage to highways comprise less than 1% of all motor vehicles. Some of their owners are asking the Pennsylvania Legislature to pass House Bill 560 that would increase weight limits... a special law for the benefit of less than 1% of users of public highways.

THE BIG-TRUCK OPERATORS SAY:

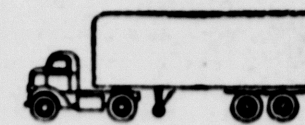

"Trucks will not be bigger! Trucks will not be wider or longer. Trucks will not carry heavier maximum gross weights than already allowable... If HB-560 is passed."

THAT IS A MISLEADING HALF-TRUTH. HERE IS THE WHOLE TRUTH.

1 House Bill 560 would permit big-truck operators, simply by adding an extra axle, to concentrate their heaviest load on a short wheel-base. This would be highly destructive to highways.

The weight of this vehicle and load would increase from 22½ to 30 tons.

The weight of this vehicle and load would increase from 22½ to 24 tons.

2 The Bill would permit truckers to operate these heaviest loads without stepping up their engine power. That means slower crawling uphill and greater danger to automobile traffic.

This bill would:

- A—Increase highway damage.
- B—Increase loss of life and property.
- C—Increase taxes.

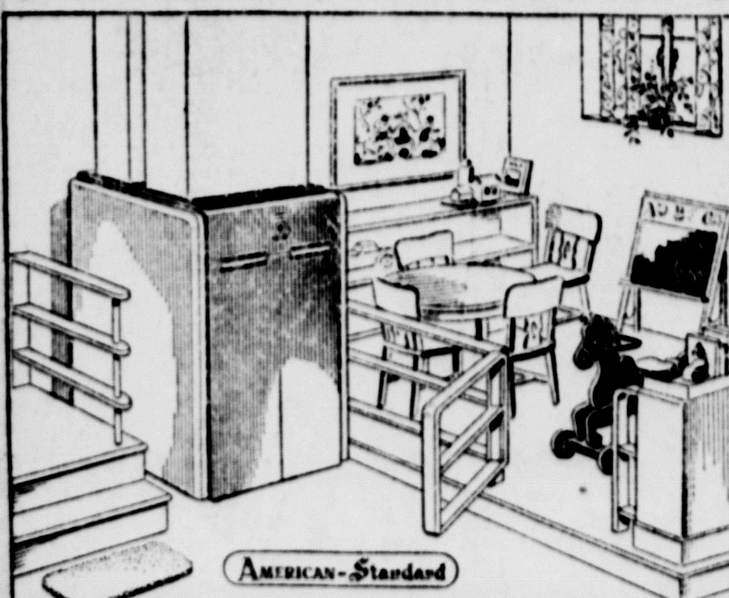

You, the people who are the owners and users of the highways, should oppose this bill.

NEWS OF INTEREST TO PA. FARMERS

By John Harms
(U.S. Pennsylvania Farm Editor)
HARRISBURG, Apr. 1 — Two German farm officials have left the staff with many new ideas for rehabilitating agriculture in the U. S. military zone in southwestern Germany gotten through their contacts with many Pennsylvania farm groups.

The visitors, Heinrich Stooss, minister of agriculture in the state of Wuertemberg-Baden, and Dr. Franz Herren, his deputy, found particular interest in results of livestock and plant disease control and the state's extension services.

"Tuberculosis and bacterial disease of cattle are serious problems with us and the Pennsylvania plan of control in these and other livestock and poultry diseases will help us greatly," Herren said.

"The main difficulty in Germany has been the gap between science and research and the application of knowledge resulting from such research," he declared in comparing German methods with the extension service of the agriculture department.

Stooss and Herren visited farms of the Hershey Estate, in Lancaster and York counties and farmer co-operatives in Lebanon and other counties and spent three days at Pennsylvania State College surveying research and extension services. They are members of a group of six agriculture leaders of bizonal

Germany selected by their own countrymen to tour the United States. They were officially cleared of Nazi collaboration.

The agriculture department said now is the time to get control of termites, usually found in old homes. And if you're thinking of getting rid of the pests once and for all, here's how to do it:

Locate their underground nests, usually found outside the foundation walls. When the termites can't get to wooden structures through cracks in the masonry, they build cement-like tunnels on the outside or inside surface of the foundation wall. Scrape the tubes and insulate the building from the soil with metal or concrete barriers.

Termites cannot live unless they can get to the soil, according to Dr. A. B. Champlain, State Entomologist.

One of the best chemicals to kill underground nests, says Champlain, is pentachlorophenol — a white crystalline material which can be had in solution under trade names.

Mix the solution with fuel oil or waste crankcase oil and pour into trenches or holes several feet deep near termite nests on both sides of the foundation wall.

If using the crystals, dissolve two and a-half pounds of pentachlorophenol in one gallon of pine oil and dilute with oil to make seven gallons.

Two New Plays Will Be On Bucks Co. Playhouse Schedule

Two new plays, which it is hoped will be presented next season on Broadway, will be offered this summer at the Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope, by Theron Bamberger, director of the theatre.

One is "Take My Stand", by Elihu Wiler, who is currently engaged in writing film and television scripts in Hollywood. The play is a comedy with an important underlying political and social theme. The locale is a southern city. The author himself is from Birmingham, Alabama.

The other new play, tentatively titled "Group of Ten," is by Frank Mandel and Morgan Wallace. The action takes place on an uncharted island in the Pacific toward the end of World War II and deals with the experiences of ten airplane passengers of various nationalities who are forced down there. Under the title "Ten" the play was tried out several months ago in Hollywood.

The Bucks County Playhouse will open its summer season on Friday evening, June 3. One of the possibilities for the summer is a revue, The Bucks County Follies. A number of distinguished authors and directors have already displayed interest in the project, among them George S. Kaufman, Moss Hart, Oscar Hammerstein, Justin Herman, Philip Loeb, and Ezra Stone, and it is hoped to have contributions from each of them and from others. Ann Walker, well known Broadway orchestrator and arranger, who lives in New Hope, will compose many of the numbers, some of them in collaboration with Jack Lawrence lyric writer. If the numerous sketches and musical numbers can be completed in time this will be a late season offering.

Among the performers who will be asked to participate are Kitty Carlisle, Shirley Booth, Ella Logan and Sara Seegar.

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. Edward G. Yeomans
Pastor
Bristol Presbyterian Church

Lighten our darkness, we beseech Thee, O Lord, and by Thy great mercy defend us from all perils and dangers of this night; rather may the hours of this night bring us rest and refreshment for the tasks and the duties of the morrow. Give us each day the patience and peace that enables us to endure our lot and portion as we put our trust in Thee. We do not ask to understand, we only ask for the gift of faith that will enable us to rise up out of doubt, to overcome fear, to conquer temptation and to humbly confess, "Lord, I believe." Amen.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By JOE ELBERSON

Write and protest . . . in a recent legislative bulletin issued by the National Rifle Association comes this message on anti-firearms legislation introduced by the Pennsylvania law makers for action at the current session of the General Assembly in Harrisburg. Every sportsman should write and protest. Here is the text of the bulletin:

"1. House Bill No. 1176 has been introduced in the State Legislature by Representatives Wayne M. Breisch of Ringtown and Representative W. Henry Elder of Jersey Shore.

"2. The bill is an amendment to existing Pennsylvania penal law, to control the discharge of firearms. It would prohibit the discharge of any firearm at any time or place within the commonwealth except under certain conditions as provided in the bill.

"3. The pertinent sections of the bill are here quoted in full for the information of all Pennsylvania sportsmen:

"Except as hereinafter provided it shall be unlawful for any person at any time or at any place in this Commonwealth to shoot at any mark or target other than at living creatures upon which there is not at the time a closed season with a rifle, airgun or firearm of any sort or to discharge any airgun or firearm at random or in the general direction of any human being in such a manner as to endanger the life or safety of any human being.

"Nothing in this section shall prohibit the discharge of an airgun or firearm at a properly constructed target or mark or at a dead tree protected by either a natural or artificial barrier so that the ball or bullet cannot travel more than fifteen (15) yards beyond the target aimed at after making due allowances for deflection in any direction not to exceed an angle of forty-five (45) degrees.

"Any constable, police officer, member of the State Police force, game protector, fish warden, forester or forest ranger may, upon view, arrest without warrant any person found violating the provisions of this act and bring such person before a justice of the peace, alderman or magistrate for hearing. All penalties shall be paid into the funds of the county in which collected. Provided the provisions of this section shall not be construed to apply in any manner to the protection of life or property or to officers in the performance of an official duty or to regulations controlling shooting at targets during the big game season or to the building or equipment of rifle ranges owned, leased or maintained by the Pennsylvania National Guard or by any properly accredited State or Federal rifle club or association or to any public shooting exhibition properly safeguarded and conducted under the direction of any organization for the promotion of marksmanship.

"4. This is a careless, incompetent and dangerous bill which starts with a blanket prohibition of all shooting in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and then proceeds through badly worded and incomplete exceptions to establish those places and circumstances where firearms may legally be discharged. Exceptions so carelessly drawn in fact, that no provision is made for shotgun shooting at Skeet or Trap, although shotguns are everywhere classed as firearms. Their discharge would be prohibited by this legislation except at living creatures not protected by a closed season.

"5. This type of legislation is particularly insidious because it attempts to shift the burden of proof away from the State and on to the individual. It would make a normal act illegal except as specifically exempted. Every person who discharged a firearm in Pennsylvania consequently would become a violator unless he could prove to the satisfaction of the Court that his act of firing came within one of the exceptions as listed.

"6. This bill No. 1176 should be defeated. A casual reading by any competent rifleman is enough to discover the flaws which make the measure worthless as a means of preventing firearms accidents and discriminatory toward the legitimate sportsman.

"7. It is suggested that all interested NRA members and sportsmen express their views on this proposed legislation to the members of the Judiciary Committee of the House who are considering the bill or to their own elected state representative at the Capitol in Harrisburg.

"8. Members of the House Judiciary Committee are: Chairman J. H. McKinney, Franklin; Vice-Chairman A. W. Johnson, Smethport; H. F. Boorse, Lansdale; T. H. Lee, Philadelphia; H. J. Tahl, Philadelphia; Francis Worley, York Springs; T. H. Greer, Butler; Louis Sax, Philadelphia; L. M. Mintess, Philadelphia; L. A. Bloom, Chester; R. F. Kent, Meadville; M. J. O'Donnell, Philadelphia; F. A. Orban, Jr., Haverhill; W. Z. Scott, Summit Hill; E. W. Tompkins, Emporium; H. H. Yaiter, Philadelphia; B. S. Altshuler, Philadelphia; B. D. Herman, Millersburg; J. N. Robertson, Media; N. P. Ziegler, Harrisburg; E. H. Bane, Uniontown; A. D. Brandon, Pittsburgh; H. S. Brown, Pittsburgh; G. T. Guarnieri, Philadelphia; E. J. Hagerty, Philadelphia; L. D. Leonard, Pittsburgh; M. G. Mihn, Pittsburgh; A. S. Headlager, Reading; Samuel Rose, Philadelphia; T. H. Schmidt, Pittsburgh; Mary A. Varrallo, Philadelphia; D. H. Weiss, Monessen."

St. Ann's Parochial Five Defeats St. Mark's Team

ST. ANN'S CROWNED CHAMPIONS; WIN GAME FROM PROFY TEAM BY NARROW MARGIN OF SINGLE POINT

On a foul shot by "Kenny" Martin, the St. Ann's A. A. team was crowned the 1948-49 basketball champions of the Bristol Basketball League last night, ending the two-year reign of the Profy team. An extra period was necessary to decide the victor, score being 42-42.

The score was tied at 42-42 and less than two seconds to play when Martin was fouled. The sound of the referee's whistle had hardly died out when the automatic buzzer went off, ending the game. But Martin was entitled to his free throw.

Both teams lined up as if playing were to continue. The St. Ann's players shouted words of encouragement to Martin while the Profy players were trying to distract his attention and cause him to miss the throw. The former Youth League high scorer who had sat out practically the whole game on bench, made a perfect swish of the cords without touching the hoop for the winning point.

It was a dramatic finish to a well-played game. Fans were on the edge of their seats from the opening whistle until Martin's deciding gift shot. Both teams lost valuable players in the tilt via the personal foul route. St. Ann's had "Kenny" Stoll on the bench mid-way in the third quarter and then lost him in the last session. Joe Natale also went out on fouls but this gave Martin his opportunity. "Easy" Mama, who did an excellent job in guarding Stoll also had five personal. Both "Johnny" Slaven and "Johnny" Pindar, of Profy's played the overtime period with four fouls on them.

"Arnie" Malloy and "Rabbit" Palumbo led the St. Ann's contingent to the triumph. Both of these boys scored 12 points each but Palumbo's antics in "stealing" the ball caused the Profy rosters plenty of heartaches. Stoll had ten points to his credit.

Slaven also did excellent work while he was playing defensive ball against Malloy. Pindar had 19 points for the Profy team and did his scoring in spurts.

The closeness of play is indicated by the fact that the score was tied six times. St. Ann's took the lead eight times and Profy's five. The largest St. Ann's lead was 19-19 in the second quarter while Profy's best edge was 39-26 at the end of the third session.

The scoring was scarce at the beginning of the tilt. Gallagher dropped in a foul and Stoll put St. Ann's in front, 2-1. Mama's set shot gave Profy's the lead and Slaven's gift throw made it 4-2. Barbetta's long shot tied it at 4-4. Slaven's shot underneath the basketball made it 6-4 but Stoll converted a foul. Barbetta followed with a fielder and St. Ann's jumped into the lead, 7-6. Pindar put the radiomen in front with a field goal from the circle. Stoll tapped in a rebound and Palumbo's two foul conversions made it 11-8. After Mama dunked a foul, Stoll had a two-pointer, making the count, 12-9.

Both teams played a good guarding tilt in the second canto. Barbetta followed Hansen's foul with a long shot. Stoll's pass to Palumbo was good for a fielder and Malloy dropped one in from the side to make it 15-10. Messenger dunked in a long throw and Pindar and Stoll made fouls. Hansen's double-decker made it 20-15 at the half.

Pindar scored three points for the Mill Streeters to open the third session. Palumbo's goal made it 22-18. Gallagher scored twice in succession to knot the count at 22-22. At the same time a St. Ann's player was pushing Pindar and he made the shot to even the count at 42-42. Then came the disastrous foul to Martin who converted to put a spectacular finish to the game.

The St. Ann's rosters rushed on the floor after the foul shot and hoisted Martin to their shoulders and carried him to the dressing room for his "Frank Merriwell" finish.
